CMHC Self-Employed

Streamlining the home financing process for self-employed borrowers

CMHC Self-Employed enables qualified self-employed borrowers to access CMHC mortgage loan insurance at no additional cost.

Highlights

Available to different self-employment types

CMHC Self-Employed eligibility includes sole proprietorships, partnerships, and incorporated companies. A minimum of 24 months operating the business or experience in the same line of work is recommended.

Flexibility for recently self-employed

CMHC offers additional flexibilities for borrowers who have been operating their business for less than 24 months, or have been in the same line of work for less than 24 months. Additional eligibility considerations can be found at cmhc.ca/selfemployed.

Various documentation options to support income verification

- T1 General accompanied by the Notice of Assessment (NOA)
- Proof of income statement (POI)

Recognizing that self-employed borrowers may deduct expenses, income from self-employment in the case of sole proprietorships or partnerships may be grossed up by 15% or by using an “add back” approach of eligible deductions. Eligible deductions are limited to business-use-of-home, motor-vehicle expenses and capital cost allowances. If using an “add back” approach, income from self-employment may be verified through audited financial statements, financial statements accompanied by a Review Engagement Report signed by a practicing accountant, or Statement of Business or Professional Activities (T2125) accompanied by the NOA.
