INDIGENOUS & NORTHERN HOUSING

On-Reserve Residential Rehabilitation Assistance Program (RRAP)

What is the On-Reserve Residential Rehabilitation Assistance Program (RRAP)?

The On-Reserve Residential Rehabilitation Assistance Program (RRAP) provides financial assistance to First Nations to cover the costs of major repairs and adaptations for homes located on-reserve.

Who is eligible?

The program is open to all First Nations for funding on-reserve projects for First Nation or occupant-owned homes. The occupants' total household income must be at or below the established limit which is based on the location of the community.

What work is eligible?

The house must lack basic facilities or is in need of major repairs or adaptations in one or more of the following categories:

- Structural
- Electrical
- Plumbing
- Heating (HVAC)
- Fire safety
- Overcrowding and
- Accessibility

What assistance is available?

The financial assistance is in the form of a contribution. The maximum loan amount is $60,000* per unit.

* If your property is located on-reserve in northern or remote areas, or the project includes accessibility work for Persons with Disabilities, or minor adaptations for Seniors, the maximum amount may be increased by 25%.

IMPORTANT

Eligible repairs will only be funded if the work is started after you submitted your application. Once you get approval, all work must start within 3 months and be completed within 12 months.
